United Methodist Museum: Journey to Reopening

UMMAC is working hard to reopen its doors in the near future. We have beautiful newly polished floors, freshly painted walls in Gallery I, and brand new sanitizer stations. As we continue to carefully monitor health and safety conditions, we are doing everything we can to incorporate policies and adapt guidelines as necessary to help in keeping all visitors safe. Until the museum officially opens its doors, please visit our website at arumc.org to view our virtual exhibits, to learn more about upcoming events, and news. Happy Labor Day.

This project is supported in part by a grant from the Arkansas Humanities Council, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the United States Congress.

Oral History Project

The United Methodist Museum's oral history project "Recording the Leaders of our Faith" recently finished an interview with Cleifton Vaughan. This interview is a great contribution to our project. These interviews are helping to preserve Methodist History in Arkansas. Thank you Chad Hornsby, this is one of his final interviews for the project. Let's continue to record our history.

This project is supported in part by a grant from the Arkansas Humanities Council, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the United States Congress.

Congratulations to the new Director of the Methodist Archives and History, Dr. Ashley Dreff.
